Today's Program.....

Cliff Sheldon introduced our speaker today, Marissa Kurtzhals, Development Director of the Performance Network Theatre. Assisted by a power point presentation, she focused on the effects of social media on the productions and development at the theatre. Some of the social media techniques she uses include Face Book and Twitter. These methods are also used to showcase behind scenes of some of the shows. Performance Network also uses You Tube and a Blog to promote the shows and to connect with their patrons. There are also Happy Hours before and after shows. Other programs include a Children's Theatre and workshops for children, and New Works by new playwrights.

Next Weeks Program.....
